The first newsletter of the academic year offers an opportunity to reiterate the purpose of this publication. This is the principal formal means of communication between the IIT Information Processing Center and its users. Informally, we place notices of short-term or immediate interest on the bulletin board in the data preparation area. We ask our teaching staff to make occasional announcements in class. But information we feel that you might like to save and perhaps to mull over in your minds we present to you in this newsletter. Therefore, we suggest that you plan to keep each issue of the newsletter in a binder for later reference. If it contains information you want to make available to your students and staff, we can provide you with extra copies on request.
